Schilling Inc. Brings Tiflex Organic Screen-Printing Inks to North America

Officials from Schilling Inc., formerly Schilling Graphics announced that Tiflex Organic Screen-Printing Inks are now available in the North American Market.

Tiflex, a French ink manufacturer based in Poncin, France, offers a complete range of materials and inks for screen printing. As a partner of screenprinters worldwide for over 120 years, Tiflex are specialists in dedicated inks for graphics and industrial applications.

Now this innovative technology is available in North America for screen printing inks for glass, metal, textiles and a host of other substrates.

"With our exclusive distribution and the availability of Tiflex's products in the North American market, we now offer the most comprehensive line of solvent based and UV inks for graphics and industrial applications in the industry," said Douglas Schilling, President and CEO of Schilling Inc. "The market increasingly demands more innovation and control over the entire printing process, as customers strive to seize the new opportunities available with flat and container glass decorating. Tiflex's solutions will give our customers access to the wide range of organic solvent based and, UV curing inks that have been specifically adapted for excellent adherence on glass and metal with exceptional resistance to chemical agents."

Schilling Inc. has a long tradition of strong relationships with customers providing custom solutions and services tailored to their specific needs. The addition of organic inks to the portfolio increases the range of those solutions with products backed by Tiflex's depth of manufacturing expertise.
